To whom it may concern,

I have the pleasure of providing my strongest recommendation for Simon Orenbach, a therapist with whom we worked from April to June 2014 in Waterloo, Belgium. Our 12-year old son was struggling with meeting his school commitments and my absence on a long-term work assignment, leading to poor grades and a stressful home environment. We were thrilled to find Simon very close to where we lived. As a French-American with native English, communication with our son was smooth and fluid. More importantly, Simon's very approachable and enthusiastic manner was very effective. He quickly gained the trust of my son, who initially was very reluctant to see a "therapist" but after a few sessions was very much looking forward to the visits. Simon mostly met with our son one-on-one but brought in the parents from time-to-time as he judged necessary. The effect on my son's behavior and the family's happiness was rapid and significant. Our experience with Simon was wonderful and I do not hesitate to recommend him to others.

Sincerely,
